The Swedish Development Agency Scholarships 	Master's level studies at Swedish universities	Master Programme for Key Personnel in Developing Countries, Swedish Institute (SI) and Swedish Development Agency (SIDA), Stockholm, Sweden.	English	The SIDA's and the SI's new range of scholarships for master's level studies at Swedish universities for university graduates, citizens of a developing country with several years of relevant work experience. These scholarships are financed by SIDA and administered by the SI. Currently, a scholarship pays SEK 8,000 per month, plus travel costs to and from Sweden. Tuition for the eligible programmes is free. Scholarship holders are insured by the SI against illness and accidents in Sweden during the scholarship period. Cadidates have to apply directly to the university for the master's programme and at the same time inform them that candidates would like to be considered for this scholarship.	Yes- all countries. Eligible programmes are listed by country.	If you have been selected for a scholarship for a programme that begins with the fall semester, you will be informed by the Swedish Institute in May or early June	http://www.sweden.se/templates/cs/Article_10273.aspx http://www.si.se/
