Sauvé Scholars  	"Sauvé Scholars" is an opportunity for highly-motivated people to come to Montreal for eight months to research, reflect, question and enlarge upon their understanding of the state of the world and their roles in effecting positive change. McGill University is the home of the Program. McGill opens the doors of all its courses and resources to the Scholars.	McGill University, Montreal, Quebec, Canada	English, French	The Sauvé Scholarship Program seeks highly-motivated candidates who have completed their undergraduate education, or the equivalent, but who have not necessarily attained an advanced degree. Focusing on the unrealized potential of their youth, but with a solid academic or experiential foundation, candidates should be under 30 years of age. Past Scholars have come from a wide range of disciplines such as journalism, communications, the arts, economics, and social and community development. Scholars are awarded a stipend valued at CAD 30,000 for travel, tuition, housing, meals and supplies.	All countries (tbc)	The deadline for receiving the complete application package in Montreal is 31 December	http://www.sauvescholars.org/
